Findings of Wm. Sinclair.

The most exciting case in the Fifth ward, on Friday evening last, Dr. Miller's decision in the case of Wm. Sinclair, agent of Rosa Kelly, the proprietress of the house, and occupying some of the rooms, was brought to a close. It was shown that Sinclair had collected rents and managed the business of the house, and that Miss Kelly had left the management entirely in his hands. The Court decided that Sinclair was not liable for the rents collected, and that Miss Kelly was entitled to the possession of the property. Sinclair was represented by Messrs. Bakewell & Robertson.

The Cherokee Neutral Lands.

Important Opinion Relative to their Sale to Joy Frankford Brunback & Chinn—The Suffrage Amendment—The New Railroad Scheme—Inauguration Reception—Additional Supreme Court Judge—The Alaska Robbery—Mrs. Lincoln's Pension Claim Favorably Considered—The Alabama Claims Treaty.

Special Despatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 29, 1869.

The Cherokee Neutral Lands.

Mr. Laughlin, representative of the settlers on the Cherokee neutral lands, has received the following legal opinion from Gen. Butler, Judge Advocate and Judge William Johnston, of this city, now in the Indian Committee of the Committee on Public Lands in regard to the rights of the senate to authorize the sale of public lands to Kansas:

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 29, 1869.

DEAR SIR: In answer to your inquiries in relation to the Cherokee neutral lands in Kansas, we have examined the treaty of 1866, and the treaty of the December, 1868, the Cherokee letter of instructions, and the letter of the Secretary of the Interior, and the opinion of the Attorney General upon the latter, and the papers accompanying the same, and without any power of attorney, and on behalf of the Cherokee Nation in the premises, and on behalf of the United States in their relations to the Cherokee Nation, we are clearly of opinion that the Senate has no power to authorize the sale of the Cherokee neutral lands in Kansas. The treaty of 1866 provides that the lands shall be disposed of by the United States in such manner as Congress may direct, and the proceeds paid over to the Cherokee Nation. The Senate has no power to alienate lands in foreign governments or private citizens. The question whether in the assistance of Indians or not, and that the sole power to dispose of public lands is vested in Congress.

This opinion was expressed by the House of Representatives in the session of the 38th Congress, 1864, declaring the Osage treaty "not within the treaty making power, and not authorized by law," and subsequently by the Senate, which refused to ratify the treaty, and finally, by the passage of the act of March 3, 1865, declaring that settlers on Cherokee neutral lands, prior to June 30th, 1865, should be entitled to receive a patent for lands to be surveyed, on payment of one dollar and twenty-five cents an acre therefor. We hold, therefore, that the sale of Cherokee neutral lands to James A. Harvey, or any patent which may be issued to him will be void, that the purchasers from him will acquire no title, and that Congress alone can act in the premises.

In our opinion, good faith and justice require that Congress should enact a declaratory statute declaring the forfeiture of the Harvey claim, and authorizing the re-sale of the lands to actual settlers, giving settlers the right to purchase at one dollar and twenty-five cents an acre, and that the Cherokee Nation should receive a compensation for the lands, to be paid out of the proceeds of the sales, to remove all doubt, it is further our opinion that Congress should by New York statute that it is a duty to advocate for $2 so much of the municipal regulation as relates to the sale of the Cherokee neutral lands. We have no interest in those lands, and no professional or other relations to any person connected with them, except that as citizens of a common country we hope for justice to all, and we submit to Congress as our earnest opinion the monstrous doctrine that the senate can authorize the sale of the lands of Congress and land policy of the nation.

Fraudulent Boardsheds.

The statement that fraudulent boardsheds existed on the line of the New York Central caused the offer of the Fifth Auditor of the Treasury is calculated to convey an erroneous impression. These claims are submitted with the evidence on which each is based to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who decides upon them, and whose award is final. The law provides that the amount of drawback for time found due and awarded by the Commissioner shall be paid by a warrant on the United States Treasury, and the Auditor and Comptroller have no discretion but to state the account on the certificate of the Commissioner. It is only in this limited sense that the claims pass through the accounting offices at all.

A Kentucky Claim Tabled.

The bill reported by the Judiciary Committee to repay Blanton Duncan, of Louisville, the money collected from his property under the confiscation laws, was defeated in the House to-day. The claim was advocated by the Chairman of the Committee and General Butler, and was opposed by Stokes and others. Mr. Schofield's motion to lay on the table was a tie on a rising vote, but on call of the yeas and nays gave a majority of 9 to 8.

The Senate

Had a lively time this morning about the Mississippi election, during which Mr. Fessenden gave Mr. Conness a genuine Fessenden roasting, and the latter was then relieved by the committee on Private Land Claims. The constitutional amendment was then taken up and Mr. Stockton made a long speech, laying down the fundamental principles of the Democratic party in his District and State, after which Mr. Pomeroy delivered a scriptural argument in favor of woman suffrage. Mr. Wilson then called up and carried through his bill abolishing the franking privilege, and the Senate then adjourned till Monday.

The Grand Charity Fair

still continues to add to its attractions, and numbers among the most popular places of resort in the city. The spacious basement of the Cathedral has been transformed into a fair palace, and is nightly thronged with visitors, who are delighted and entertained in their praise of the arrangement. The different booths are attended by beautiful and accomplished young ladies, who are dressed in their robes to render the idea of costume complete. A beautiful feature is the presence of and connected with the appointments and public wants and attractions, produces a pleasing effect. The telegraph office is located in the basement, and is open at all hours. To the Ladies Bazaar the committee attending are indebted for the most successful efforts in creating an attractive contest. Those articles in fancy needle-work, confectionaries and refreshments of the most delicate kind. The beautiful table affords a magnificent set of silver to the most amiable young lady, and will be awarded to the most popular merchant, at the close of the fair. The contest is now among the friends of the various committees. The Union Charity Club, at their meeting, elected a new committee, and a full list of officers and a magnificent collection of fancy articles, and the latter especially is creating amusement in crowds desire to become the possessor of it. Connected with the above are grandest of attractions of a well filled museum, a shooting gallery and numerous combined refreshment rooms, where all kinds of delicacies of the season can be had. The ones of wild animals is a piece of incongruous that is worth the price of admission, and can be seen every evening around the Grand Charity Fair.

Wednesday Evening.—Last evening's entertainment, and the last of the course, was well attended together a good audience of kindly disposed critics to listen to the musical efforts of the young performers. It was the exhibition of the Preparatory Department, the annual public exercises of graduating class of the year. The order of manner followed by the scholars assures the result to Messrs. Agnew and Foster, upon whom devolves the management of the entertainments involved. The music, by the Duquesne Silver Cornet Band of Harding, greatly enlivened the audience. A fair to form again on Monday.

Dramatic Amusements.—On Wednesday evening about five o'clock an old lady named Mrs. Sarah Kilmartin died suddenly at the residence of her son, No. 10 Fourteenth street, of the Fifth ward. She had been ailing for some time past, having previously complained of a swelling in her breast, but was not considered dangerous. She was in the act of rising from a chair in the room in which she died, when she fell back and expired. Coroner Kerr was notified, and after investigating the circumstances of the case, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Rules's History.

Mr. Connell, from the Conference Committee on Rules's History of Pennsylvania Volunteers, reported in favor of striken hundred copies for the Senate and twenty-eight hundred for the House, provided none should be sent by mails. The matter was postponed.

The Franking Privilege.

Mr. Ernott introduced a bill incorporating Cabon borough, Allegheny county.

Mr. Kerr—Bill changing the time of holding spring elections in Butler county, to the time of general elections.

Mr. Taylor—Allowing interested parties to testify.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Franking Privilege.

Nearly the whole of the morning session was occupied discussing the joint resolutions of Mr. Davis, of Philadelphia, prohibiting members from franking packages over four ounds postage, or franking letters for other persons.

Mr. Brown, of Clarion, moved an amendment combining all pastors and editors but five. The amendment was rejected.

Mr. Strang, of Penn, offered an amendment combining the franking privilege, but other cards withdrew it.

Mr. Brown, of Huntingdon, Strang, of Tioga, Pingford, of Fayette, McMillen, of Montgomery, and Rogers, of Philadelphia, opposed the resolution, as implying dishonesty on the part of members, and because they had already passed the law of the last Legislature.

Mr. Davis Makes a Vehement Denial.

Mr. Davis, of Philadelphia, made a long speech for the resolution, in the course of which he said a good deal had been uttered against the extravagance of the present Legislature, which was not true. Last year fifty thousand dollars less than any other session. He had been charged by the Pittsburgh Journals as to blame for the enormous abuses in printing bills, but he had not voted for more than his article proved, he should be ashamed to publish a respectable newspaper. The speaker had nothing more to do with the payment of officers than the Czar of Russia. It seemed to him that members were right out one individual. He defied any member to prove corruption on him. The Pittsburgh Gazette had fallen in the same error and called upon him for an explanation. He had given it in one of Speaker, and upon more than one occasion.

Bonds were issued from the office of the Treasurer under an ordinance of Councils, of which, some Union and Central Pacific Railroad companies.

Grant and Colfax's Opinion.

The report of the Committee on Pensions in the case of Mrs. Lincoln says they are unable to perceive that she is entitled to a pension under the letter and spirit of any existing law. The Committee are aware that the friends of the Constitution regard it as the very essence of the Constitution that the lady under the guise of a pension, but no evidence has been furnished them that any pension was ever granted to any person occupying such position as that of the late President, whether in the assistance of Indians or not, and that the sole power to dispose of public lands is vested in Congress.

This opinion was expressed by the House of Representatives in the session of the 38th Congress, 1864, declaring the Osage treaty "not within the treaty making power, and not authorized by law," and subsequently by the Senate, which refused to ratify the treaty, and finally, by the passage of the act of March 3, 1865, declaring that settlers on Cherokee neutral lands, prior to June 30th, 1865, should be entitled to receive a patent for lands to be surveyed, on payment of one dollar and twenty-five cents an acre therefor. THE common public are quick to perceive the point of advantage. The latest proof of this is found by referring to the advertising columns on the first page of the COMMERCIAL, where Bazaar Cards will procure the conspicuous insertion of three lines additional lines at the same rate. The great multitude can only control a fraction of a little thing in itself—enough to move the world. These cheap advertisements will prove the Bazaars that will enable any shrewd business man to move trade. They are the needle gone in action—sharp, quick, decisive. A Bazaar once active patronize realized the advertiser nearly one hundred dollars before noon. He is preparing to go in many times, where never-ending cards many times, which is about the same thing. It is just the thing.

AND Pittsburgh has written a letter in which he says he does not feel at liberty to decline the Democratic nomination for Governor of Pennsylvania. General Cass being the only name of the ticket, and his friends are understood to be confident of giving him the nomination. An impartial survey of the field, however, makes Packer a chance the best. The contest bids fair to be a warm one.

AS the House of Representatives at Harrisburg is manifesting a disposition to investigate the abuses of the last Legislature, we would suggest that they inquire how the sum of $4,000 in one case paid for the expenses of a Legislature, when the per diem proposition limited only amounted to two hundred and forty thousand dollars. We find by the Auditor General's report that the amount paid for Senate expenses was $109,776.05, and the amount paid for House expenses $235,454.11—total, $345,230.16 or $105,776.16 more than was appropriated. The twenty-first section of the appropriation bill reads as follows:

[Illegible] for the payment of the expenses of the Legislature during the year next ensuing or so much thereof as may be necessary, the same to be apportioned and paid out by the Auditor General in the manner following, to wit: [illegible] Senate, and the sum of [illegible] House of Representatives, [illegible] Auditor General [illegible] Senate and House of Representatives [illegible] Auditor General [illegible] Senate and House of Representatives [illegible] Auditor General [illegible] Senate and House of Representatives
